

North Hempstead's "aging-in-place" Initiative, Project Independence, Launches Website

*For Immediate Release
Aug. 17, 2010*

*Media Contacts: Collin Nash and Sid Nathan
(516) 869-7794*

*Manhasset, NY--*Arguably one of the most ambitious initiatives to take root under Supervisor Jon Kaiman's administration, Project Independence is attracting attention as a national model.

Now, North Hempstead's comprehensive "aging-in-place" program for residents 60 and older has launched its own website (www.tonhprojectindependence.net), allowing virtual access to the program's host of available services, such as transportation assistance, as well as links to scores of sites that offer help to older residents wishing to age in the communities of their choice.

You can even register to become a Project Independence member via the website.

We encourage you to let us know if you find the site helpful and accessible as well as offer any comments or suggestions by calling 311 or 869-6311.

#