

Foamflower (Tiarella cordifolia): Foamflower is a great groundcover as it sends out running stolons and will creep along the ground. It has white, frothy blooms that stand erect over maple-shaped leaves in the late spring, providing a beautiful alternative to mulch. It provides an early flower source for pollinators. Blooms April to May.

