

Mapleleaf viburnum (Viburnum acerifolium): This shrub is relatively small, rounded and has maple-like leaves. It produces small white flowers in early summer which give way to pea-sized fruit that ripen in late summer. Its leaves turn a beautiful reddish-purple in the fall. It attracts pollinators to its blooms and birds eat the fruit. Blooms in June.

