

Arrowwood Viburnum (Viburnum dentatum): Arrowwood is named for the straight stems which have historically been used in the creation of arrows. White flowers and blue berries are similar to the maple-leaved viburnum. Leaves are distinctly pleated and toothed, adding an almost sharp appearance to the plant. Blooms May to June.

