

Garden phlox (Phlox paniculata): This upright perennial grows in clumps with pink-purple florets. Provides nectar and pollen to bees, butterflies as well as hummingbirds. It is a great butterfly attractant. There are many cultivated varieties of this plant (see below). Blooms July through September.

Phlox paniculata 'franz shubert'

