

River birch (Betula nigra): This deciduous tree has catkins that provide seeds to a wide range of songbirds and it is a larval host for mourning cloak and tiger swallowtail butterflies. Blooms April through May.

